Welcome,

I created this website to explore new connections, gather information about my new locality, and as an online journal for certain specific endeavors. While I share a significant amount of information here, not everything is all inclusive and there are many, many grey areas involved, so try not to dive too far into the details.

With regard to my career and professional endeavors, I am a successful business owner and branching into new and emerging technologies. Since moving to San Antonio, I've been engrossed in construction of a platform that matches clients with providers, globally, for several markets, and it has a tentative launch date of September 1, 2026, following months of development by my 30-person team.

I am able to work from anywhere (mostly from home) and pretty much make my own hours, so I decided to embark on several things:

1. Dating: Having been single for a few years and not dating, I focused on healing and work. I have hired a matchmaker and am firing my first shot at online dating.
2. Home Improvement: I purchased a new construction home on a golf course, and I am working to make it what I envisioned. I even built a theater and game room.
3. New Friends: This hasn't gone as well as I'd like, but I still try. People can be pretty nosey and/or draw conclusions on false information or what they "think" they know. I'm a guy you can take at face value. I'm simply too busy for drama.

Thanks for visiting and please, I challenge you to try a rare and widely unpopular thing to do these days... be anonymously kind.

God Bless America,

Jason Maxwell
